Tenth Sunday in Ordinary Time

Sunday Reflection: 'If a household is divided against itself, that household can never stand.'

The murder of two-year-old Jamie bulger in Liverpool many years ago was a defining moment and a metaphor for the dark side of our modern society. The fact that young children could intentionally kill, astonished us beyond words. In all its horror it paraded before us the sins of deed, and more particularly of omission, that we have committed over recent decades by undermining the concept of personal and social responsibility. The temptation to do evil is never far from the surface in the lives of young and old, given certain circumstances. If we feed our minds and hearts on a diet of vulgarity or perversity, we develop a blurred sense of right and wrong. Some parents are incapable or unwilling to set moral and behavioural boundaries for their children. The Scribes in today's Gospel claim that Jesus is possessed by the devil when he highlights the prevailing forces of evil in society at that time. The fight against evil in all its various forms is ongoing. Even though we are sinners, Jesus has made it possible for us to overcome sin and evil.

A Prayer for those doing exams

Lord Jesus, as I prepare for my exams, I ask you to grant me strength in body, peace of mind and constant hope.

Banish from my mind all fear, anxiety, regret and nervous distractions.

Help me to concentrate in study on what matters.

May your gift of the Holy Spirit guide and enlighten my fragile mind.

At this difficult time in my life's journey, give me the gift of self-confidence and the assurance of your presence.

Amen
