Reflection: Simon Peter said, "I'm going fishing."

Fish are funny creatures. Ever on the move, they flit about, dashing and darting hither and thither, full of agitation and enthusiasm. They are so quick to react to the first rumours of danger and yet so easily caught. There is a certain 'fishiness' about us too. We are, after all, the fish Christ sent Peter out to catch. Like fish, we are immersed in a sea of troubles and distractions, easily alarmed and agitated by every ripple of excitement. We expend so much energy on trivialities. We dally so dangerously with temptations, and allow ourselves to be hooked to so many creature comforts, from cigarettes to various status symbols. It is little wonder that Christ showed a marked preference for fishermen when he chose his first apostles.

Today's Gospel miracle is also the miracle of our lives. Christ continues in loving and gentle ways to throw his net of salvation over us, a net of grace. He carries us ashore to our eternal home in heaven.

A Prayer for Self-Development

Father, help me to know myself, what I am and what I can become.
Enable me to see the good in myself, and rejoice in it to see the flaws and change them.
Teach me to live with myself, to accept myself.
Remind me that becoming what you want me to be is more like cultivating a garden than chopping down a forest.
